Are The Trails Open?

Check the latest trail conditions! Unfortunately, in the midwest, the recent weather events can dictate if the trails are even "open for business". Whether it be from rain, snow or just the freeze/thaw cycle our local trail soil conditions can't handle foot or wheel traffic if too wet. The damage done by just one person riding or hiking in wet/muddy conditions can cause extensive damage, which will require many volunteer man-hours to repair. The best way to find out about local trail conditions is to check the trails listing on the EarthRiders.com forum (<http://forums.earthriders.com/viewforum.php?f=25>) Get instant tweets from the KC Trails Status on Twitter. <http://twitter.com/#!/KcTrailsStatus>. Each metro area trail system will post updates (open or closed) as conditions change.
